Fund Managers Comments

As at 29 January 2021

In January, the GBP R Class (Acc) shares of the Fund returned -5.7% versus -4.3% for the MSCI World Insurance Index benchmark, -1.4% for the MSCI World (both net total return GBP), -0.8% for the FTSE All Share and -1.4% for the S&P 500 (both total return GBP).

It has been another frustrating month of performance for the Fund and the sector, especially given the fourth quarter earnings season has started well. Through 2 February, seven of our underwriters have reported representing c29% of the portfolio (five commercial insurers, one reinsurer and one auto/home insurer). Book value growth has averaged over 7%, comfortably ahead of the 4% expectation we noted in last month's fact sheet commentary.

Looking specifically at the five commercial insurer results, they reported an average underwriting margin of 12% in 4Q20 (a combined ratio of 88%) and 5% for FY20 despite elevated catastrophes and the impact of COVID-19. Underlying underwriting margins, excluding the impact of catastrophe losses and prior year loss reserve development, increased 2.8% for FY20 as we are now starting to see the impact of strong premium rate rises since the end of 2018 earn through into reported profits and consequently book value growth. There was a significant margin acceleration during the year with 1Q20 averaging 0.8%, 2Q20 2.8%, 3Q20 3.3% and 4Q20 4.4%. This is exactly what we expected to see. We fully anticipate this underlying margin improvement to continue into at least FY22 reported results, if not beyond, accelerating the pace of book value growth and this is a key reason why we revised our expected book value growth for our portfolio back to 10%+ following the third quarter results late last year.

Our largest broker holding, Marsh & McLennan (MMC) capped a strong 2020 with an impressive 4Q20 result. Full year like-for-like EPS growth was 7% despite a very challenging economic backdrop, helped by 1% organic growth and strong margin expansion. Looking to 2021, management expects "solid growth" in EPS driven by underlying revenue growth of 3-5%, further margin expansion and capital management initiatives. Well managed insurance brokers are wonderful cash cows and management has guided to $3.5bn capital deployment for 2021, up from $2.6bn deployed in 2020. MMC's debt leverage temporarily rose in 2019 following the cash acquisition of JLT, but with balance sheet strength now fully restored only $500m of the $3.5bn expected cash generation will be used to retire debt. With a dividend expense of c$1bn, this leaves c$2bn for value creating M&A and share repurchases. Management has suggested buybacks will be "meaningful" and we look for to them capitalising on recent share price weakness.

2021 represents the 150th anniversary of MMC. Dan Glaser, CEO, put this achievement in context on their earnings call: "Our growth and financial performance over this period was also outstanding. At the beginning of the 20th century, we had approximately 20 employees and less than $1m of revenue. Fast forward to today, we have over 76,000 employees in 130 countries and over $17bn of revenue. Since going public in 1962, our financial returns have been exceptional with significant earnings growth. During this time, our revenues, adjusted operating income and adjusted EPS all have grown by a double-digit CAGR with a share price return CAGR over 10% annually. These stock returns meaningfully outpaced the S&P 500 and are testament to the value that Marsh & McLennan delivers for clients, colleagues and shareholders."

MMC also gave an update on their quarterly Global Insurance Market Index on their earnings call. The Index rose 22% in 4Q20 compared with 20% in 3Q20, 19% in 2Q20, 14% in 1Q20 and 11% in 4Q19. This is the greatest increase since the survey began. We believe the compounded impact of these rate increases is not fully understood. Since 4Q18 the Marsh index is up 38%. There is always a lag between premium rate rises and their impact showing up in the income statement and consequently book value growth. An insurance policy written today typically takes 12 months to be fully recognised in the premium revenue top line given the usual annual contract. A prudent underwriter would likely recognise less than half of that contract's expected underwriting profit in those 12 months, given the inherent uncertainties of insurance, with the balance coming in future reporting periods through positive loss reserve releases. This lagged feature of the insurance industry means the underwriting margins currently being reported are more commensurate with what the underwriting environment was 6-18 months ago than the much stronger pricing we have today. We have much to look forward to.

There are no signs that the premium rate momentum we have seen since late 2018 will not slow any time soon which means we can reasonably expect strong book value growth for the next 4-5 years. We believe the earnings stream of our companies is less sensitive to the macroeconomic outlook than most other industries given the non-discretionary nature of the insurance purchase, and furthermore is less vulnerable to the technological disruption that has broken long-established business models in other sectors.

Since the COVID-19-related headwinds of the first half of 2020 our companies have rewarded our patience with strong book value growth which we expect to continue. We believe their prospects continue to improve and the time this is more appropriately recognised in company valuations is getting ever closer.
